

100 YEARS OF INNOVATION

ALUMNI SPOTLIGHT

Kathlyn M. Card-Beckles '97 is a seasoned patent attorney with 13 years of experience specializing in intellectual property issues and contract negotiations. She is currently managing director and associate general counsel of intellectual property and technology at JP Morgan Chase.

As manager of the patent and trademark group, she is responsible for overseeing JP Morgan's global patents, trademarks, copyrights and trade secrets, including the areas of litigation, IP transactional agreements, prosecution, and legislative lobbying.

Kathy's previous legal experience includes the law firm Kenyon & Kenyon, the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office, and the Chambers of the Hon. Edward Damich of the Court of Federal Claims.

She earned her juris doctorate with honors from The George Washington University, and received the Trailblazers Under 40 Award from the National Bar Association (NBA). The award recognizes those who have achieved prominence and distinction in their field, and who have demonstrated a strong commitment to the goals and mission of the NBA.

Prior to her legal endeavors, Kathy worked as a process engineer at PepsiCo-Frito Lay and completed a cooperative work experience program with Cytec Engineered Materials.
