

ALUMNI SPOTLIGHT

Lynn J. Tracey '92PhD has spent her career in academia for more than 20 years and is currently a professor of chemistry at Anne Arundel Community College in Arnold, MD.

Well respected by her students and colleagues for her teaching methods in chemistry, physics and physical science, she received the John and Suanne Roueche Teaching Excellence Award in 2012. She is also advisor of the student-run chemistry club, and coordinator of the general chemistry 1 course curriculum.

Outside of the classroom, Lynn has taken on leadership roles such as vice-president of the Faculty Senate. In addition, she was program chair of the 183rd Conference of the Two-Year College Chemistry Consortium, a professional development program created by the American Chemical Society to provide educators with the tools they need to enhance student learning.

Prior to her UD career, Lynn earned her Bachelor of Science degree in chemical engineering from the University of Maryland, College Park.